

Ms. Nigeria Toi Johnson

April 30, 1978 - July 2, 2020

Nigeria Johnson Sunrise: 4/30/1978 - Sunset: 7/2/2020

Beloved daughter of Toi Hines Thomas (Husband, John Thomas) and Galvester G Johnson, Sr.

On April 30, 1978, a bright Sunday morning in Durham, NC, Toi and Galvester welcomed a beautiful baby girl. Then in 1982 the Johnson's relocated to Philadelphia, where Nigeria received her education in the Philadelphia School System. Nigeria received a certificate in Housekeeping.

Nigeria is preceded in death by her brother Andrew G. Johnson. She leaves to cherish her memory one Son from her union with Tracey Kennedy, Nassir Terohn Johnson (wife, Amy and grandson, Nassir Jr.); her Daughter, Anaya Nigeria Johnson, from her union with Tracy McAllister.

Nigeria will be lovingly remembered by five brothers: Galvester G. Johnson, Jr {(wife Patrice); Former wife Taynia Prosser} Herbert B. Smith, Jr.; Chelsea Johnson; Auburn G. Johnson; Neaumobi Mickle; five sisters, Seana Johnson; Sabrina Johnson; Laconia Strothers, Linda Strothers, Step-Sister: Quiana Smith (husband Philip).

Nigeria was so loving and accepting of everyone. Even when Neaumobi Mickle announced he was moving in and adopting Andrew as his brother. Funny thing Neaumobi and Andrew were 11 years old. Nigeria was 12, but she tossed Neaumobi right into her list of brothers along with Andrew, Lil Guy and Lil Herb. She could smack them around but nobody else better say a harsh word to her brothers. They say "you can't pick your family", but Nigeria defied that saying all her life.

aunt/uncles that contributed to her upbringing.

Nigeria loved to constantly shop for household goods. Whenever she went out, she always made sure she drank an “Ice Cold Beverage”, which was short for Ice Tea. If she didn’t drink that, she would definitely have a polar pop. She always made a daily run to the tropical cafe to buy a smoothie. Almost every time you visited her house or a place, she visited you could find her watching movies like ‘Trading Places’, ‘Harlem Nights’, “Rush Hour’ or ‘The Jackal’, just to name a few.

Her taste in music was amazing. She would have her radio blasting music from N.W.A, all the way to Tina Marie. Her music was influenced by her mood that was completely positive and kind.

Nigeria's self-proclaimed cousin's list is so long and often extending beyond traceable bloodlines: Leslie Morris, Shannan Crooks, Joie Robinson, Stuart Robinson, Eric (Easy E), Jeremy, Ebony Hines, Felicia Hines, Ginelle Hines, Eric Jones, Laquitta Fontaine Law-, Nigeria was blessed with an abundance of nephews and nieces that she adored greatly.

Celebrating birthdays was so important to Nigeria. Every month she secured a birthday card for everyone that had a birthday the next month. She mailed them and then called to say “Happy Birthday, did you get my card”. This also blended with her love of holidays, which she also sent Christmas, Thanksgiving and Veterans Day, Father’s Day, Mother’s Day. For her, every day was a holiday.

When Nigeria accepted Jesus as her personal Savior, she couldn't wait to share the Jesus she had come to know and to be baptized so everyone would know she is blessed!

“ A sweet spirited and humble person. She loved her family, church but most of all she loved God. Earth is mourning but heaven is rejoicing to welcome another soldier home.

“ Walking into Nigeria's apartment, she would have the radio on 107.7 playing old school hits. She always greeted me and the girls at the door with a hug and she would say "Hey, cuz, how are you", and when I asked her in return she would always reply, "Oh, I'm blessed" and she truly was. No matter how she was feeling she always had a positive attitude. Nigeria, you will always be in my heart, you will never be forgotten. I miss you Ni, rest in paradise. We love you, Ebony, Jordyn & Destiny
