“ My Aunt Addie was laid to rest this morning. A couple of months ago God sent her spirit bird in a Mourning Dove to me. She landed on my backyard neighbors house and waited around until she got my full attention. She looked me in the eye, put her hands on her hips and said, "I ain't going nowhere soon". This bird was feisty and beautiful. After that she strutted back to the top of the roof, enjoyed the warm morning breeze and then flew away. To all of her love ones and friends this is the type of person my Aunt Addie was. She was so loved by my mom her oldest sister, Mary Lillie Marshall Redding, they talked on the phone daily and now they can sit together in heaven and talk all day. Fly free my beauties, I know that I will never fear death from here on out because I hope to reunite with my sister Suzanne Redding who will be there in heaven to talk to me as they have talked to each other for decades. My greatest teachers of love, rest in peace.

“ My cousin Addie and I was of different generations. She left home while I was very young. We saw each other on her infrequent visits throughout the years. Fast forward as Aaron and I began our lives as a military family like Addie and Jesse; they took us under their wings and we became very good friends. So my cousin and I were close enough for me to choose her as godmother to our son Justin. We (Aaron, Martez, Justin and I) were captivated by my outgoing, trash talking, fun-loving cousin. She found the way to Aaron's heart by cooking meals for him and talking about my noncooking. We really had a ball at the Spielbank (casino) in Berlin Germany. Addie and my family stayed close over the years by visiting and talking on the phone. I never missed seeing or calling her on her birthday (for some reason no matter where I was or what I was doing 12 February was embedded on my brain). Dear Addie as you join numerous members of the family, I have no doubt, we will laugh again about the only meal I made (tacos) for breakfast, lunch and supper. We always want to remember the good times. With God's guidance all those memories will live on in our hearts until we meet again in glory. My guys and I love you so very much! Your cousin Mary

“ I was so dumb struck whenever I saw my friend Addie in the obituaries section a few moments ago. I met Mrs. Addie in the early 90's and was blessed enough to become her father's in home nurse. My sincere prayers are going up for this entire family. Another ANGEL has taken wings!
