“ I have so many fond memories of this wonderful man who I call daddy, but the one he loves to tell is the one where I moved in with them. He caught me walking to his house. He was on his way to work. I was at the end of his road. He saw me, rolled down his window and said "baby, what are you doing out here this time in the morning?" He told me to get in the truck and took me home. He had been like a father to me from that day forward and I like a daughter to him. I was blessed to have this man in my life. I will treasure my memories of him always! Love you Daddy!
