“ The Darling of our family was quiet and often silent in words. However her deeds of kindness in the rest homes and hospitals was great. She slipped away from us just as quietly and as softly as she would talk. She was the oldest of 13 children and the shortest. It has only been a few days since she said good bye to us but we can already feel the pulse of her absence. The older quiet short lady"s presence was Big and she will forever be in our hearts.

One of her favorite devotional/testimony songs was I Will Trust In The Lord.. I had been sick for a long period of time and doctors did not know what to do. Family was concern, prayed but when I was around often did not know what to say. One day she entered the room and she looked worried. I could tell she was lost for words. She sat beside me, held my hand and began to sing I Will Trust In The Lord. Tears flowed but my heart was encouraged and the healing began from the inside out.

She lived and demonstrated silence and quietness is strong and powerful.

*Love you soo much,
Baby Girl*
