“ Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted. (Matthew 5:4)

To the Elliott and Williams Families: May it be a source of inner strength to know that there's a loving God watching over you, and that, throughout time, He'll stay close by your side.

You are in our prayers.

No Words Seem Appropriate... I won't say, I know how you feel, "because I don't", you'll get over it, "because you won't", your family and friends will comfort you, "because they may not", Pull yourself together. I've lost a parent, grandparents, sister, aunts, uncles, cousins and friends, perhaps; I've learned what you are going through. So, what I will say... family and friends open your hearts and let yourselves feel the true emotions. This journey you're not alone. Life will have to go on. I am here. I care. You'll find comfort and burden eased... Try SWEET JESUS!!!

“ What moves through us is a silence, a quiet sadness, a longing for one more day, one more word, one more touch, we may not understand why you left this earth so soon, or why you left before we were ready to say good-bye, but little by little, we begin to remember not just that you died, but that you lived. And that your life gave us memories too beautiful to forget. Although no words can really help to ease the loss you bear, just know that you are very close in every thought and prayer.

Lisha, Please know that we are praying for you and your kids during this time. I totally understand that it's not easy for you, however we still know that God is a God that can not make a mistake. We love you very much..... Love, Keisha, Brianna, and Daviona.

Takashia Elliott - June 26, 2012 at 02:46 PM

The "entire" family needs prayer. Aaron (husband), Chelsia (daughter), Timothy (son) and Lisha and all their children/grandchildren, brothers/sisters/cousins/nieces/nephews and friends kids. I pray God strengthens you for blessed are those who mourn for they shall be comforted
