“ On a recent visit to see my uncle Johnney, we drove around Fayetteville and Lumberton looking for a golf cart for him to purchase. Since he didn't drive any longer he wanted to be able to drive around the neighborhood and see his friends. We didn't find one, but we had the greatest time talking and laughing about how he was going to put a large motor in the golf cart and fly around the neighborhood. I must say that uncle Johnney was a strong man. He never complained as I knew he was in a lot of pain. He accepted his fate with dignity and quiet resolve. He must be admired also because he never said a bad word about anyone. He would only quietly smile and say it is what it is. I visited my uncle 10 times since July to make sure I spent quality time with him as I knew his time was short. And finally my wife, granddaughter and I spent Thanksgiving with him and said our goodbyes as he smiled at us as we left to return home. My uncle Johnney and I considered ourselves as brothers since we were raised up together. "We love you uncle Johnney and you will be forever in our hearts. Robert & Theresa Swift
