“ Grandma Louise,
*This is the toughest pill I have had to swallow in a very long time. I just don't believe that you are not here anymore. As I reflect I remember all the summers in Lumberton with you Grandma Martha and Granddaddy Tommy. You remember when you told me Chris and Thomas that the fire alarm was going to go off and when it did not to run? Well, what did we do when the fire alarm when off? We took off running all the way across Ms. Jackie's yard and to the woods, and not to mention I flew out of the tub with no clothes. I hated for you to tell this story I thought it was embarrassing. It is only now I could imagine how funny that was to you. As I grew older, we talked more frequently I would call you and you would say hey boo, I would say hey how are you, and you said I'm just fine how are you, and I would say Just Lovely and you would get so tickled saying ok Ms. lovely. I am going to miss coming to Lumberton because the trip will never be the same, rest in that lovely place I will miss you more than words can say.
Love Your Granddaughter Jessie!*
