“ I'm deeply saddened and mourn the loss of Ramon, such beautiful soul, an innocent spirit and a very uniquely special person. I know/knew him and his family quite well and because of that, my family had a chance to meet, be around and get to know Ramon more than some others got to. I feel blessed for that opportunity and I'm grateful. I don't claim to have been his best friend or to have known all of his hearts desires...but I knew enough of him to know that the "mark" he left behind him on the earth, was a mark of "humane love and kindness". He loved perfectly, like a child, he befriended fully and thoughtfully, he was generous, and a peaceful person. He loved children...I still remember the day he played for a while with my 4 year old daughter "WILDCARD" in the front yard of his families home. He did it just because he was willing to take the time to give her someone to play ball with. His thoughtfulness and generosity was indicative of his ability to "love"others...reminding me of the time he helped me walk around the stadium at my first GA Bulldog game...because ...lol...during the tailgating party apparently my "FUN" hit me faster and harder then expected. He never judged me for my silliness at the game. Instead Ramon let me hold onto him as he strongly assisted me from falling in/off the high stands of the packed stadium, that day. He never judged anyone, that I ever saw...honestly. I also cannot forget his ample generosity and the freetime he put into FREE projects for his family and friends-- using his impressive skills, making handy, amazingly beautiful, wooden, carved objects for friends and family. Ramon was unique, and special. We should all hope to learn to have and adopt the childlike love that Ramon possessed, and so easily gave to others, around him. Heaven is meant for those that can love like a child. I mourn his passing, yet it's bittersweet...because while it's hard to believe that a wonderful man like Ramon is gone from this earth...I KNOW that Ramon must be in Heaven...the place in which the object of his faith resides: GOD/JESUS. While we miss him and weep, I believe he's up there, smiling that huge giant smile...that smile that made you have no choice but to smile back. I believe he's happy in the place where there are no more tears, sadness or pain. I never did get to practice sparring with Ramon...but maybe we will, for fun, *later on in the better place. I want to send my love, peace, and friendship (regardless of past events that are trivial and truly... meaningless in the big picture, of this short and precious life). I pray that Ramon's wonderful brothers Jasper and Rico, find peace. I pray for the father: Neil, that he can go on in life finding meaning, and spreading kindness...continuing to be the man of character he is within. Lastly my heart goes out to Ramon's loving mother ...who loved him from the moment she saw him and raised him in love allowing him to grow into the special, loving, kind, thoughtful, generous, and faithful human being he was...When GOD saw how great Ramon was, I believe He was ready to take him home, because his job ...whatever that was, was completed. I PRAY PEACE, UNDERSTANDING, AND MUCH LOVE FOR: Johanna...Ramon's momma. I hope she knows that I'm here for her, regardless, if she ever does want my ear, and most of all ...I hope we all find solace, and can better ourselves from using Ramon's example of goodness and light that he brought into this dark world. GOD BLESS YOU ALL, sent with love...
