“ I miss my dad so much. So much. I feel empty most of the time and i think about it everyday. I just want one more moment, I wish I could rewind time bc it never gets better. It never goes away.

I cannot imagine what it is like as a little girl to lose your father. I am so sorry for your loss Diamond, and I am sorry for your brothers and sisters too. He loved you all sooo much. He was dealing with so much emotional turmoil inside. I really miss him too. He was my best male friend. I talked to him everyday, most of the time, several times a day, and all he talked about most was his children. Make your daddy proud diamond, because he was smart, and he wanted all of you to get a good education. He would think it was good for the boys to go in the military. He regrets that he did not continue on in the military. One thing I would like for you and the other children to know is that he had a mental illness, suffered from bouts of depression, and he used alcohol and drugs sometimes to relieve that pain he was feeling. If any of you feel depressed or something is not right, be sure and seek help immediately, dont wait until it gets out of control. You have my phone number, you and the others can call me anytime, and I would always do what I can to help any one of you. Here is my email too, just in case we lose contact and my phone number changes or something: edmonds.ursula@gmail.com.
